ABOUT TOWN MATTERS IN ARLINGTON.

All notices of concerts, lectures, entertainments, etc., to which an admission fee is charged or from which a revenue is to be derived, must be paid for by the line, at the advertised rate.

All the churches are preparing special services for the Christmas Sunday.

Next Sunday afternoon Rev. S. C. Bushnell gives an address before the Winchester Y. M. C. A. in their rooms.

December 15th, third Sunday in Advent. Early celebration of the holy communion at St. John's church, Academy street, at 7.30.

The Sunday school connected with the Universalist society is rehearsing a sacred cantata which it expects to give on Christmas Sunday as a concert.

The Rev. James Yeames will preach at each service at St. John's, Sunday next. Morning prayer, litany and sermon, 10.30. Evensong and sermon, 7.30.

Prest, Geo. D. Moore appeared at the meeting of the Co-operative Bank, Tuesday evening, with the handsome cane recently presented to him by his associates.

Mr. A. E. Turner, of Jason street, started on a business trip to Charleston, S. C., Wednesday morning. He has large financial interests near the city.

The consecration of the Rev. Charles Henry Brent, D. D., as bishop to the Philippines, will take place at Immanuel church, Boston, on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock.

The family at 21 Russell terrace is indebted to surgeon David Cheney for a box of beautiful flowers from his home place in Belmont. The courtesy matches the flowers.

Brilliantly lit and wonderfully attractive in novelties displayed, LeBaron's store in Swan's Block is a most attractive place to visit. The stock of Christmas novelties exceed anything we have seen elsewhere.

The Church Total Abstinence League, of which Rev. James Yeames is secretary, is growing. Boston Chapter held its monthly meeting on Tuesday, when six clergymen were present and eight parishes represented.

The "no school" signal sounded last Tuesday morning was early enough to warn the High school pupils as well as the others. The severity of the storm had passed soon after nine o'clock.

The December number of the High school Clarion is in the hands of the printer and will be ready for its distribution to subscribers Dec. 20th. The editorial staff and business manager have been particularly energetic this year, making one of the best papers ever issued by the association.

High School Clarion will be ready for delivery next Tuesday.

Mr. George A. Sawyer the carpenter, is improving slowly from his recent serious fall from the roof of the new Baptist church.

Supt. Kimball had a large force of men out Tuesday morning opening up the gutters and putting the sidewalks in a passable condition.

Arlington Baptist Society of C. E. meets at 6.30, p. m., Sunday. Subject: "Imperialism of Christianity," with reference in Dan. 2: 43-45. F. W. White will be the leader.

The snow sliding from the roof of Mr. A. W. Trow's house, on Russell terrace, caused considerable damage to the wide piazza located on the front of the house, Tuesday night.

Mrs. Lucretia B. Kimball will be married at the home of her father, Mr. Albert H. Kimball, on Central street, at 8 o'clock on Christmas day. The bridegroom is Mr. Francis L. Smith of Salem.

It is unfortunate that an important function at Masonic building will deprive some of us of hearing Prof. Booker T. Washington who is to speak before the Woman's Club on the evening of Dec. 19.

The Young Ladies' Mission Band connected with the Baptist church, holds its meeting this (Saturday) afternoon with Miss Priscilla Russell. Miss Reynolds, from the Baptist Missionary rooms, will give an address.

At a meeting of the committee to investigate town affairs held Wednesday evening, Messrs. Newell and Spurr, of Winchester, were engaged as experts to assist the committee in securing facts and formulating a report.

The police department has nothing to report this week but two or three drunk cases, and an assault which occurred some time ago but did not come to trial till this week, when the prisoner was sent to the House of Correction for two months.

At the Sunday evening service of the Universalist Y. P. C. U., the pastor of the church, Rev. H. F. Fister, will read his paper on the history of the Universalist church, recently given before the Arlington Historical Society.

The sewing meeting for members of the Bradshaw Missionary Association connected with the Pleasant street Cong'l church, will occur next Wednesday afternoon, in the church parlor. The Association are preparing for a sale to come later in the season.

On last Sunday morning, at the Pleasant St. Cong'l church, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Henderson united with the church on confession of their faith. During the year, which is about ended, fourteen new names have been added to the roll of membership.

Mr. J. William White, who has been in the employ of the Gen. Electrical Co. for the past three years, has entered the testing department of that company on the expert course, which will thoroughly equip him as an electrical expert on power and lighting.

The Woman's Alliance connected with the Unitarian church, held its regular sewing meeting Monday afternoon, in the ladies' parlor. Next Monday afternoon will occur the monthly literary meeting, when Mrs. Paul Revere Frothingham will be the speaker.

"No-school" signal sounded Tuesday morning at quarter-past seven, which gave to all the schools a release from attending. A driving rain storm, which had continued since early morning, had made the sidewalks, covered with the snow of a previous storm, almost impassable.

The sub-committee of the Committee of 21 to whom was referred the article in the town warrant on the matter of street lighting, will meet in the Assessors' Room, Town Hall, Arlington, Dec. 16, 1901, at 7.30 o'clock. This committee kindly invites any and all persons to appear before them who desire to express themselves on this matter.

Cashier Wm. D. Higgins informs us that last Monday's business was the largest of any single day since it was organized. The cash entries were over six hundred in number, and thirty cents in postage was required on the package to one of its correspondents. Our National Bank is an institution to be proud of, alike in its officers and management.

Monday Rev. S. C. Bushnell and wife attended the dinner given at Young's Hotel, Boston, by the Monday Club, of which Mr. Bushnell is a member. The club is made up of ministers of Orthodox churches, who publish a book every year containing one sermon by each member, on the International Sunday school lesson. The meeting this week was one of special interest, it being "ladies' day."

The Chautauque Circle met with Mrs. Williams Dec. 9th. Readings from "Imperial Germany," "First Steps in Human Progress," and a "Walk through Venice," were of much interest, as was also a letter from Mrs. E. Nelson Blake, descriptive of her journey south. They are in need of new members, the older members of the circle having graduated or retired on laurels bravely won, have now the memories of their struggles for a higher education as a reward for the duties performed. All that care to join the circle will be welcomed with pleasure. The next meeting will be held Dec. 23, at the home of Mrs. G. A. Stearns, at 2.30. Roll-call, selections of Christmas readings.

Mrs. Geo. C. Dooliver is planning to accompany friends on a European trip which will be over the popular southern route and include some of the oriental countries. The party leaves early in March.

Mr. Wm. E. Wood has sent us this week columns of evidence in the suit Wm. T. Wood & Co. has brought against the committee of award at the Buffalo Exposition, which bears out strikingly the claim that the firm was most unjustly treated in the awarding of honors. Perhaps even a harsher term than we have used would seem to be warranted.

The funeral of Mr. Michael Gearin, who died on Tuesday from heart disease, was solemnized on Friday morning with high mass at St. Agnes church, at nine o'clock. Rev. J. M. Mulcahy was the celebrant, Rev. Andrew J. Fitzgerald, deacon, and Rev. A. S. Malone sub-deacon. The funeral cortege was a long and impressive one, the hearse being escorted by the bearers.

This week we publish a number of local articles inside of the paper and direct your attention to the same. On page two is the report of the funeral of Comrade Frank Marden; also, a detailed account of the sale held by the Golden Rule Lodge in Grand Army Hall, Tuesday afternoon. On page six are a number of small items with the continuation of a letter from New York from E. D. Parker, the junior editor.

Rev. S. C. Bushnell has prepared two dainty and attractive booklets to be used and presented to the participants in the ceremonies for which they are intended. One is a marriage certificate bound in white and gilt containing the form of service used by him and the certificate of marriage with an appropriate poem and passage of scripture, besides a fine likeness of himself. The other is a christening service arranged with Bible pictures in the life of Christ. This also has a portrait of the pastor on the last page.

The funeral of Mrs. Warren Cutter occurred at her late residence, 792 Mass. avenue, on Friday, Dec. 6th. Rev. S. C. Bushnell officiating. It will be remembered Mr. Cutter bought the Cushman house sometime last spring, moving with his family from their former residence on Broadway at that time. Mrs. Cutter had been an invalid since last July, having gone through an operation, a second one being performed a few weeks ago, from which she never recovered. A daughter, who is a member of the Cong'l Sunday school, is left with the husband to mourn the loss of a devoted mother and wife.

The members of the Y. P. C. U. connected with the Universalist church, held a very enjoyable social in the vestry of the church last Tuesday evening. After the entertainment, which was unique, light refreshments were served. The entertainment took the form of a cobweb of fate party, and created no end of merriment from the unique and decidedly original sentences attached to the end of the yards and yards of twine interwoven in and out about the furnishings of the room. Music was also a pleasant feature of the evening, all uniting in making it one of the pleasantest socials ever given by the Union.

A singular accident happened to Mr. Lindsey K. Foster last Sunday evening, when returning to his home on Pleasant street by the rear entrance to his father's estate. The land has quite a sharp slope from Academy street and he was going at quite a rapid rate and did not see one of the arms of the clothes-reel which hung out directly across his pathway. He ran into it with tremendous force. His upper lip was badly cut, requiring several stitches to close the wound, and the nose was badly bruised, but luckily escaped being broken. The results of such an accident might have been much more serious, but could hardly have been more painful.

Francis Gould Post 36, G. A. R., held its annual election on Thursday evening, the election resulting with entire unanimity in promoting the more active officers serving last year one grade and retaining Past-Com. Frost as custodian of the funds and Surgeon Cheney and Chaplain Willard in their accustomed places. The elective officers for 1902 are:

Commander, James O. Winchester. Senior V. Com., Alexander H. Seaver. Junior V. Com., Henry Bradley. Surgeon, David Cheney. Chaplain, William P. F. Willard. Quarter-master, Sylvester C. Frost. Officer of the Day, James A. Marden. "Guard," Henry W. Berthrong. Delegate, Charles H. Prentiss; alternate, Edward L. Sterling.

The monthly meeting of Arlington Veteran Firemen's Association, held at their rooms in Menotomy Hall on the evening of Dec. 8, was largely attended and in its social features especially enjoyable. It was voted to hold the annual dance in January and a large committee to have charge of the affair was chosen as follows:—

President T. J. Donahue, secretary E. W. Seaward, treasurer W. H. Pease, W. J. Sweeney, Sylvester Meade, T. A. Smith, W. W. Conant, W. T. Canniff, Jacob Schumacher, Andrew W. Bain, Arthur T. White, P. F. Togan, David Clancy, M. Haskell, R. W. LeBaron.

It was voted to give the repair committee full power to procure new brakes for "Eureka," and to secure the insertion of an article in the March meeting warrant for an appropriation for Patriots' Day sufficient to meet the expense of a muster. It being decided that a revision of the constitution and by-laws was desirable, a committee to attend to this work was named. After business was disposed of the company partook of the refreshments provided and then listened to an amusing and entertaining programme of songs, recitations, etc., by "Foreign" and local talent,—Bert Powers, Charles Ford, Frank Burns, Joseph Cahalin, Charles Barry being the soloists, and Mr. N. J. Hardy pleasing all with selections rendered by his most excellent graphophone.

Miss Laurel Hardy was given a party Thursday evening by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Hardy, at their home on Ramsdell court. The occasion was the fifteenth birthday of their daughter and some thirty school friends participated in the evening spent most delightfully in playing games, and general good time. One of the most attractive features was the elaborate and elegant spread served in the dining room.

The Sewing Circle and Missionary Society connected with the Baptist church held its meeting at the home of Mrs. Geo. Y. Wellington, Wednesday afternoon. The major part of the afternoon was devoted to finishing articles for a barrel and the packing of the same to send to a Baptist missionary at Oklahoma as a Christmas offering. The donations proved so generous that an extra box was needed to hold all the supplies, which included clothing, bed linen, groceries, and in fact all the necessities of life. A brief time was given to the discussion of French missions and matters of business which came up preparatory to the annual election of officers of the society, occurring in January.

The firm of Darling & Russell, prominent insurance agents of the city, lost its senior member this week by sudden death. Mr. Darling was at the office of the company as late as 2, p. m., on Tuesday and at five o'clock he was dead. He was attacked with an acute form of heart disease at his home at South Boston, and died with little warning of so fatal a termination of the disease. Mr. Darling was in his 59th year and has been in the insurance business for forty years. His partner was Mr. Geo. Otis Russell of Jason street, Arlington, who went into Mr. Darling's office after leaving school, and by his faithfulness and ability was rapidly advanced by Mr. Darling till he was associated with him in his fine business interests and shared with him in its successful operations.

The following paragraph was clipped from the Boston Sunday Herald and will be of interest to a wide circle of friends here who have been privileged to know Miss Lunde since coming to this country:—

The engagement which was announced early in the week of Miss Agot Lunde and James Homer Wright, M. D., has created a widespread interest in society quite as much as in the musical set. No one who ever heard Miss Lunde sing—and who has not?—could forget the charm of her beautiful voice, her perfect method and her winsome personality. Almost ever since she came from her native Norway she has made Boston her home, where she holds, socially and professionally, an enviable and well deserved position. Miss Lunde is a tall, handsome woman, with superb physique and bearing. Dr. Wright whose headquarters are at the Massachusetts General Hospital, is a well known pathologist and bacteriologist. His home, as well as Miss Lunde's, is at Trinity court. The wedding will be at Christmas.

W. R. C. No. 43, had a doubly interesting event at their meeting in Grand Army Hall, Thursday afternoon, which included the annual election and a presentation to Mrs. Jessie R. Crosby of a handsome baking dish as a small token of the regard in which she is held and appreciation of her associates of her services as pianist at the Corps meetings ever since its organization. Mrs. Crosby has been obliged to resign further service in this direction and her well known place in the future will be filled by Miss Mabel Tyler. Mme. Prest. Kimball made a graceful presentation speech, and although Mrs. Crosby was almost overcome with surprise she responded, fully showing her appreciation. Following the election there was a collation of ice cream and cake served in the supper room of the hall and the unusually large attendance at the meeting made a social and enjoyable gathering. The following officers were elected:—

Prest, Clara J. Kimball; sr. vice, Carrie M. Frost; jr. vice, Sarah Whitney; treas., Sarah Blanchard; chaplain, Carrie Stearns; conductor, H. Ella Haley; guard, Jennie Barnes; delegates, May Nangle and Alice Knowlton; alternates, H. Ella Haley and Violet C. Durgin.

Alike in summer and winter, Spy Pond is a trap to catch the unwary. In winter the bubbling springs make thin places in the ice until the severest weather comes; in summer the "dukes" of wind make sailing ever dangerous; the waving eel grass makes bathing in all but a few places anything but safe. Last Sunday this instatiable maw claimed another victim and, as more generally the case, a stranger to the town. About noon on Sunday Hector Paquette, of Cambridgeport, came to the pond, put on a pair of long racing skates and started out on the ice. Near the ice houses at the foot of Linwood street was an area of thin ice. Paquette stumbled while skating on sound ice, and plunged headforemost through the rotten ice before he could catch himself. He never reappeared, his momentum doubtless carrying him some distance under the frozen surface. On word being sent to the police station, officers Irwin and Barry were detailed and in about two hours recovered the body. There was nothing on it by which it could be identified, but at early evening a brother who had some way heard of the affair came, and by permission of Medical Examiner Swan was allowed to remove the body to the home in Cambridge.

Bay State L. O. L., No. 418, held its fourth annual ball in Town Hall, Arlington, Thursday evening, and it was attended by two hundred and fifty, including members of the order and their friends. Martin's orchestra played finely a concert program the earlier part of the evening, then came the grand march, which was a striking feature, led by the floor director, Mr. James Cramond with Mrs. Cramond, who was beautifully gowned in embroidered pink silk muslin over pink, with insertion of black lace and chiffon trimmings. Floor Marshal Alexander Beaton directed the march, which was unusually intricate and as effective as a military drill. The officers of the lodge and of the dance were in line with their ladies and included the asst. floor director, Mr. Peter McLeod; the aids, Messrs. Thomas Mettee, Angus Campbell, Wm. Irwin, Dan'l Dillman, Robt. Gordon, Wm. Cole. The reception committee were made up of Messrs. John Waage, Andrew W. McManus, James Wilson, Arthur Harding, Geo. Cragen, Alex. Wilson, David Lynch, James C. Dingley. The dancers were mainly young people, who entered into the spirit of the affair and had a jolly good time. The square dances alternated with waltzes and round dances and the floor was crowded with graceful dancers, showing that the L. O. L. boys know how to have a good time and that brawn and muscle show up to advantage at a dance as well as at the carpenter's bench and the other industries with which many of the Arlington members are identified and well known by many of our citizens. It was a "right brave" party and reflected much credit on the management. Caterer N. J. Hardy served the supper at intermission. Some handsome ferns outlined the platform, below which was draped a handsome American flag. The Highland schottische was the only Scottish dance and this was quite a feature of the evening. It is something like a Highland fling and several adepts were noted on the floor, notably Messrs. Beaton and Cramond and a young blonde laddie with a pretty brunette lassie, dressed in pale blue organdie, with a white guimpe, trimmed with black lace. The fourth annual will not soon be forgotten.

Pretty Home Wedding.

On two former occasions the home of Chief Engineer Charles Gott and wife has been the scene of a wedding party, and Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, a third daughter, Miss Florence May, was united in marriage to Mr. Egbert Ernest Stackpole, one of Arlington's instrumental music teachers, also an employee of the Pullman car Co., having an office at the Southern Union station.

W. W. Rawson, the florist, had charge of the decoration of the house, giving each room a bright and festive appearance by effective festooning of evergreen, picked out with white and pink carnations, amid a grouping of palms, ferns and rubber plants. The front room, where the ceremony was performed, was in white and green. A lambrquin effect was arranged in one corner of the room with a background of foliage plants. Here the couple stood and went through the marriage service as arranged by Rev. S. C. Bushnell, he performing the ceremony, and presenting them with the first copy of the handsomely bound certificate recently prepared by Mr. Bushnell as a lasting memento of these events.

The bride was attended by the maid of honor, her sister Miss Jennie Gott, whose gown of white muslin over violet and a bouquet of violets gave an added charm to the color scheme and made a pleasing contrast to the bridal costume of sheer white muslin over white silk, fashioned in one of the latest modes of tucks, accordion pleating and handsome Irish crochet lace insertion. A veil was worn, arranged with lilies of the valley on the hair and with the handsome shower bouquet of bride roses completed the unusually becoming toilette.

The ushers, Mr. Wm. E. Kerr of Gloucester, Mr. Herbert Winn of Worcester, and Mr. W. K. Cook of Arlington, the two latter brothers-in-law of the bride, and the best man, Mr. Oscar Creeley of Belmont, were included in the wedding party, doing escort duty to the couple as they entered the presence of the relatives and intimate friends to the strains of the familiar wedding march played by Miss Etta Fessenden. During the evening selections were also given by Miss Lottie Easton.

The reception followed immediately after the ceremony, being attended by some one hundred friends of the couple, who were assisted in receiving by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gott, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Stackpole, each of the ladies gowned in black silk and satin toilettes.

In the dining room the decorations were in red and white. Streamers of crepe paper were festooned from the corners of the room, as well as from the table and made an attractive setting for the elaborate wedding supper served by Caterer Hardy.

Friends and relatives contributed handsome pieces of furniture, table silver, choice china, lamps, ornaments, and many articles which will add to their prettily furnished home on Lowell street, Somerville, where the couple will be "at home" after January first. From the trustees of the cemetery, in which department of the town the bride was formerly employed came a beautiful picture framed in the latest pattern, and from her girl associates a mahogany book case.

Handsome souvenirs in the form of pins were presented to the wedding party. The groom's gift to the bride was a dainty wreath pin in pearls, the bride presenting her maid of honor a similar one in amethysts. A stylish blue venetian suit was worn away on the wedding trip which will be spent by Mr. and Mrs. Stackpole in Washington.

St. John's Christmas Sale.

The Parish Guild connected with St. John's Episcopal church held a sale in the parish house, Tuesday afternoon and evening. The rain storm which came in the early morning cleared away at noon, the sun coming out clear and bright, but walking was unusually disagreeable thus interfering somewhat with the attendance.

The Last Sad Rites

With a service and ceremonies that were peculiarly appropriate and impressive, the body of Past-Commander Frank Marden of Francis Gould Post 36, G. A. R., was committed to the tomb on Sunday, Grand Army Hall, in the building of which he took so active a part and was the place of all others (his home excepted) he delighted to visit, being appropriately selected as the place. Identified with several organizations and prominent in each, and his wife and daughter being members of others, there was a wealth of floral beauty in set pieces and bunches massed about and on the handsome and richly mounted casket, far beyond what is usually the case at funerals; his life-size portrait, appropriately draped, was on the platform, and the pictorial effect was enhanced by the flag he had valiantly defended spread over the casket, on which rested his hat, and belt he was entitled to wear as aide on the staff of a former Department Commander.

Large as was the seating facilities furnished, they were hardly adequate to meet the demand, many standing during the service, though the hour was set for a time that is the usual dinner hour on Sunday. Almost the entire membership of Post 36 was present and were assigned seats on the south side of the hall, W. R. C. No. 43 being seated to the left of the comrades. The presence of members of Post 36 in such large numbers and the service they rendered, drew from a young man present, whose several badges indicated he was familiar with not a few fraternal organizations, the remark, "The fraternity shown in this service by these old comrades is something wonderful." The family and immediate connections of the deceased had seats in the ladies' parlor, whose wide doors opening into the hall gave a view of all that transpired; representatives of other organizations had seats on the north side. Rev. Samuel C. Bushnell, pastor of the Congregational church of which Mrs. Marden and her daughter are members, was the officiating clergyman, and his rendering of the beautiful service he has arranged for such occasions gave the words he read unusual significance. In paying a brief tribute to the deceased he said:—

"This was certainly the fitting place, if it were the proper time, to sound the praises of our friend. For here he came to meet his comrades of the war. But his praises are in all their hearts and no tongue of eloquence could increase the esteem in which he is held. He and they alike won the admiration of all good men when, as soldiers nearly two score of years ago, they put their lives in jeopardy. As true a citizen as he was a soldier, his place in our regard is doubly sure."

At the conclusion of this brief address and a selection by the quartette, Commander Charles H. Prentiss called up the Post and, assisted by Chaplain Willard and Past-Commanders Knowles, Durgin and Parker, performed the service for the dead as printed in the ritual, benediction being pronounced by the chaplain. These services were interspersed with "One Sweetly, Solemn Thought," "No More the Sound of the Bugle," "Gathering Home" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," rendered with beautiful effect by the male quartette of which Mr. T. Ralph Parris is the director and bass. The burial was wholly private. Com. Charles H. Prentiss, Past-Com. A. H. Knowles, comrade E. L. Sterling representing Post 36; C. W. Hisey and W. S. Durgin Hiram Lodge; George W. Storer, Menotomy Chapter, officiating as bearers. The following is a list of the principal floral tributes:—

Woman's Relief Corps No. 43, Building Fund Association, Grand Army Post 36, Masonic emblem, Chapter and Lodge, Odd Fellows, Hampton, N. H., Rockingham Lodge No. 22, of which the deceased was a member, business friends from Hampton, N. H., Bradshaw Missionary Association, Wide-Awake Lend-a-Hand Club, assistant post-master at Boston office, Mr. E. C. Mansfield, also from Mr. Geo. Clark of the Boston post office, North Packing & Provision Company, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Deering, Vermont; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Kimball, Mr. E. P. White, Mr. and Mrs. A. Barney, of Dorchester, Mrs. J. Dow and family, T. D. Chant, of Belmont. Besides beautiful set pieces and ivy wreaths from the immediate family and friends.

WOMAN'S ENEMY
True Help for Body-Racking Pains found in Dr. Greene's Nervura which Brings Absolute Cure.

What piteous cries are brought forth by neuralgic pain? How shall it be endured? Why must it be endured? Is there no help? Neuralgia is the arch enemy of women. Many are driven almost to distraction by the pain. Dr. Greene's Nervura is the true help for it. It always attacks the seat of the trouble in the nerves, and grateful relief promptly follows. But it is not mere relief that results from the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura for nervous troubles; it is absolute cure. Read the thankful letter which follows:

Mrs. Mary A. Anderson, Berlin, Md., says: "For many years I was greatly afflicted with neuralgia in my head. I was treated by some of the best doctors, but all failed to make a cure, and the only relief I got from the intense pain was by the use of morphine. Physicians prescribed morphine, saying that by no other means in their power could they relieve my sufferings. I became addicted to the use of the drug, which was gradually getting me more and more in its power, when I was fortunately induced to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. 'From that time to the present I have not taken a particle of morphine or opium in any of its forms, save once; neither have I had a recurrence of the severe neuralgic pains in my head. I really do not feel like the same person. Why do you spend your days in torture and your nights in sleepless torment when you can surely be cured? Get Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy now and begin its use. Write or call on Dr. Greene for free special advice. His address is 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass. Don't delay if you need help."

Lend-a-Hand Sale.
An announcement of a "sale" by the Lend-a-Hand club always brings a large patronage of the town's people, who are assured of receiving their full money's worth for the articles purchased, the sale always containing a varied and attractive assortment of articles to be desired, especially at this holiday season. The affair was held Saturday afternoon, from 2.30 until 5.30, in the Unitarian church vestry and proved equally as popular as in times past. Before its close almost all the articles on each of the several tables had been sold; some of the later purchasers getting genuine bargains, which were disposed of at a slight sacrifice rather than have them carried over for another year, showing the real business like management.
The only attempt at decoration was made at the fancy table, where a frame work was put up on which was festooned green and red paper and carnations. This was in charge of Mrs. A. E. Scott, assisted in disposing of the varied, and in some instances beautiful stock, by Mrs. C. W. Kettell, Mrs. H. M. Saben, Mrs. Will Reed, Mrs. A. E. Locke, Miss Moody, Miss Kramer. The apron and handkerchief table in the left hand corner of the room came first, and here Mrs. J. E. Crane with a full corps of attendants including Misses Mattie Harrington, Clara Harrington, Mrs. Theodore Robinson, Mrs. G. H. Jackson, Mrs. Herbert Tuttle and Mrs. A. E. Tillson sold their useful stock, this making one of the most profitable tables.
The platform was devoted to the candy and crockery tables, the former having an attractive assortment of home made sweets which proved alike tempting to old and young. Here the Misses (Charlotte Elizabeth Smith, (chairman), Alice Ballard, Antis Hunt, Marion Kirkland, May Bigelow, M. K. Goddard and Mrs. H. C. Valentine readily exchanged their wares for the dimes, quarters and fifty cent pieces. The fancy plates and pitchers on the latter table were really fascinating, some being unusually handsome for the nominally small sum charged. Here Mrs. Dr. Tilton, chairman of the table, with the co-operation of Miss Carey, Mrs. J. F. Russell, Mrs. J. F. Turner, Mrs. C. B. Davis, Mrs. Foster Sherburne, Miss Mabel Stratton equally were successful in disposing of most of their stock. The preserve and housekeepers supplies occupied side with the childrens corner, the right hand of the room, and contained the usual supply of bags of all descriptions, holders, towels and the numerous necessities to be found in a well regulated household. Mrs. Robt. Clapp, was at the head here, with Mrs. W. J. Luke, Mrs. Chas. Morse, Mrs. C. E. Dale, Mrs. Everett Locke, Mrs. G. H. Streeter and Mrs. F. O. Robinson as assistants. The children were made happy with the innumerable things to be had from the old goose one of the most popular grabs being the tin life which some of the members of the drum corps were able to manipulate much to their own pleasure if perhaps not to the general company. The dolls and dolls furniture was an attraction to the little girls. All of these several departments being in charge of Mrs. O. G. Seeley, (chairman), Mrs. Geo. Gilmore, Miss Anella Mulliken, Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, Mrs. E. R. Lane. In the ladies parlor small tables were neatly spread and ice cream, cake and coffee were served which proved a popular adjunct to the sale directed by Mrs. E. R. Ferguson, Mrs. Elisha Tower, Mrs. C. F. Pierce, Mrs. Fred Brown, Mrs. Chas. Wiswell, Miss Abbie Smith, assisted in serving by Irving Pierce, Henry Tilton, Wallace Bates, Charles Peabody. The small sewing tables made by the convicts at Concord seemed to strike the popular fancy, so that four dozen ordered by Mrs. A. E. Locke proved none too many to meet the demand. At the fancy and crockery tables Miss Kate Whitman and Mr. Butler saw that each parcel was properly wrapped and "twined" and so was the whole affair conducted in a systematic manner making it easier for each department, and a pleasant social afternoon for all as well as financial success.

Golden Rule Lodge.
The members of Golden Rule Lodge, "O. L." arranged a pretty sale, followed with a supper and entertainment, Tuesday afternoon, in G. A. R. Hall. The sales tables were decorated somewhat elaborately, giving an added attractiveness to the innumerable articles displayed. The cake table made a fine showing, its tempting loaves being arranged on the white and heliotrope crepe paper, artificial flowers strewn about the cloth made of paper napkins in the fleur-de-lis pattern, completing the decoration. The national colors were used at the fancy table, which made one of the most striking effects. Here some particularly choice articles were displayed, notably a handsome sofa pillow, a gift of Mrs. Ludwig, disposed of by shares, also a doll, dressed elaborately, and a large dollie contributed by Mrs. Davenport and Miss Boyd, which were also sold on shares. The candy table, of mostly home-made assortment, was in green and pink crepe paper, arranged artistically. The bundle and housekeepers' tables made no attempt at decoration, but each held a large variety of articles. A beautiful centerpiece, contributed by Mrs. Ward and sold on shares, was on the latter table, also a quilt contributed by the same lady.
In the supper room below, between the hours of 6.30 and 8 o'clock, a turkey supper was served by an efficient committee and this proved one of the principal drawing cards, helping to swell the treasury in no small degree. The entertainment occupied the remainder of the evening and was fully enjoyed by the company present. Mrs. G. S. McNeal had the management of the sale, showing her efficiency by its general success of the whole affair. She was ably assisted by a committee made up of Mrs. J. F. Ward, Mrs. M. Naugler, Mrs. W. Goldsmith, and Mrs. J. M. Swain. The following are the names of the several committees:—

The island of Java, which is nearly 678 miles long and about 125 miles wide and located only three degrees off the equator, has the distinguishing position of supplying practically all the cinchona bark from which the world's supply of quinine is made. There are about 25,000 acres of this island used in growing cinchona.

The semicentennial of the birth of Kansas City will occur in 1903, and the suggestion is made that it be observed. The incorporation of the city was in 1853, just half way between the Louisiana purchase and the World's fair that is to celebrate it. Previous to that time Kansas City was called Westport Landing and was a struggling frontier town on the Missouri river.

An exposition dealing with means for preventing seasickness was held at Ostend recently. It comprised apparatus for diminishing the effects of the motion of a vessel, plans of special vessels designed to avoid movements producing sickness, apparatus for holding the abdomen rigidly in place, plans for ventilation and renewal of the air of cabins, deodorizing agents, hygiene of seasickness, remedies, etc.

WOMAN AND FASHION

For the Skater.

This skating costume has a skirt of leather cloth, bright drab, ornamented with bands and moderately long. The jacket is of astrakhan, with small tails, and trimmed with silk embroidery in a cashmere pattern. The hat is of broadtail, trimmed with chrysanthemums.—Paris Herald.

SKATING COSTUME.

Two Shades of Green.

Women who are possessed of ruddy complexions should bear in mind that the light green now so fashionable is not suited to them because it is a color which has the effect of producing an overheated appearance. A delicate green, on the other hand, is favorable to pale blond complexions because it imparts a rosiness to such complexions, red, its complimentary color, being reflected upon green, says Woman's Life. Violet is an unfavorable color for almost every kind of complexion because reflecting yellow it increases that tint when it is present in the skin or hair. It gives to an olive complexion a jaundiced look. Blue, again, is unsuitable to brunettes because it adds to the darkness of the complexion. Yellow, orange and red suit dark people because, contrasting with the dark skin and hair, they not only show to greater advantage themselves, but enrich the hue of the black.

Old Styles Revived.

The fashions of the eighteenth century will be remarkably en vogue this winter, but for all that the classic styles of the commencement of the nineteenth will certainly not be left out in the cold. Empire gowns will be exclusively worn in the evening by some of the very smartest of Parisian women and among them Mme. Waldeck-Rousseau, who is wise enough to wear just what suits her, whatever the fashion. A hint, by the way, for anybody who has empire gowns made at home or by a "petite couturiere." One of the big Rue de la Paix houses, a house which makes a specialty of this kind of toilet, makes all its empire gowns with a broad band of elastic inside, just above the waist line, and fits the gown to be worn without corsets.

The Napoleon Hat.

Among the remarkable array of hats that are shown for the winter season those made of tulle and lace seem most inappropriate and would rather suggest a garden party chapeau with their lovely trimmings of satin velvet flowers and green leaves or lace, exquisitely jeweled embroideries and ostrich feathers. The Napoleon hat, however, tells quite another tale, with its fur trimmed brim or crown and folds and choux of velvet, and the girl who has selected one of these fetching hats has made a wise choice, for she will make a bewitching picture when Jack Frost has come to stay.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Stylish Collar.

The large sailor collar pictured in the sketch is of tuck net, bordered with an insertion of the new flit lace and edged with a kilted net frill. There are two cravat ends of the net, one a little shorter than the other, and each finished with a band of the lace and kilted frill of the net. This collar will transform a plain blouse into a dressy bodice.—Philadelphia Ledger.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

The Burglar's Mistake.

"Look here," said the burglar as the man raised himself to a sitting posture in the bed, "what do you mean by living in a room that invites visitors and yet affords no reward? Haven't you got any money hid out somewhere?"

"No," replied the man, "but I'm expecting some. I have sent two poems to The Scrawl, four sketches to The Scribe and six"—

"Say, are you a writer?"

"I should say so! Just let me read you my"—

The burglar raised a warning hand. "No," he said; "my time's limited. I've got three more houses on my list, and if they pan out as bad as this one I won't have any breakfast. I'll read your stuff when it's printed. I take all the magazines. By the bye"—

He paused, looked at his watch and asked:

"Any more literary houses in this district?"

"None."

"All right, I'm off. Good night!"

"Same to you! Please close the window after you!"—Atlanta Constitution.

The Lady's Point of View.

Mr. Peckham—Here is a dispatch about a woman who is accused of having poisoned a man who was supposed to have been her lover. Her husband refuses, however, to believe that she is guilty and says he has positive knowledge that she and the dead man were never more than friends.

Mrs. Peckham—What a blind fool he must be!—Chicago Record Herald.

One Explanation.

"Why is it," asked the demure young thing, "that the proportion of widows who marry again is so much greater than that of widowers?"

"Why, that is the most natural thing in the world," answered the chronic bachelor. "It's entirely a matter of sex. The widow simply can't enjoy a peaceful life."—Chicago Post.

Giving Themselves Away.

Dolly—Gracious, but my lips are sore!

Florence—So are mine.

Dolly—How many leonids did you and Horace see?

Florence—I really don't know. He did all the looking, but if he missed any stars he didn't miss any kisses.—Chelsea (Mass.) Gazette.

An Annual Visit.

Arrival of the gorges' principal Christmas guest.

Evidence.

Mrs. Cummings (a guest)—What a noise that steam makes in the pipes! Doesn't it annoy you terribly?

Mrs. Flatt—On the contrary, we know by that the steam is turned on. It is seldom that we should be able to find it out in any other way.—Boston Transcript.

A Long Memory.

"Old friends are the best, they say, Mrs. Boardman."

"That's what they say, Mr. Wiggins." "Then I ought to like this chicken, Mrs. Boardman, because I distinctly remember that we were friends the first time I was on earth."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Timidity.

"Don't you love children?" "Some children," answered the man who is slightly bald.

"But don't you love children as a rule?"

"No. I once taught school. I don't love them. I fear them."—Washington Star.

Appreciated.

Bliffers—How do you excuse those mother-in-law jokes to your wife?

Funniman—I tell her they refer to her mother-in-law, and she says they are not half bad enough.—New York Weekly.

At the Colonel's.

"My dear," said the colonel's wife to the colonel, "the barrel is empty."

And the colonel raised his eyes and asked drowsily, like one in a dream: "Flour or whisky?"—Atlanta Constitution.

Municipal Elections.

That a united party in the Democratic city of Boston would be successful in electing its candidates for office this year was to be expected, but that success was to come to Hon. Patrick A. Collins in this second contest for the honor of mayor by a plurality of over 18,000, not one of his most sanguine supporters imagined. With this landslide came the success of all sections of the ticket and the Democrats will be responsible for the government of the city of Boston for the next two years at least.

The result in Cambridge was even more of a surprise than the outcome of the voting in Boston, the nominee of the citizens' combination naming the successful candidates for a long series of years being defeated by Mr. James H. H. McNamee, put in nomination by the straight out Democrats, receiving less than 200 more votes than were cast for Mayor Dickinson who stood for reelection. The city stands firm in the no license column, as does Somerville, where Mayor Glines was chosen by an increased majority for a second term, and Newton, who places at the head of her municipal government, John W. Weeks, who is junior member of the well-known banking firm of Hornblower & Weeks at 53 State St., Boston.

By the narrow margin of thirteen votes in Chelsea and twenty-eight in Woburn, these cities change from no to yes on the license question, but Newburyport, for the first time, will try the experiment of closing the saloon, as far as popular vote can accomplish this result. The other cities remaining the same in regard to this question as in former years. Chelsea has been a no-license city for a number of years, and a recount of the vote may result in a change of the figures first given out and retain her there. We hope so.

The following are answers to many enquiries reaching us from time to time in regard to the conducting of affairs by co-operative banks:—

- Loans are bid for at each monthly meeting.
- Money is advanced in instalments, to build, if desired.
- Loans are repaid in monthly instalments of principal, premium and interest.
- The credits of a loan are called dues and form a sinking fund.
- The sinking fund participates in the profits and in time extinguishes the loan.
- Loans may be repaid at any time, usually in multiples of $50.
- Shares at withdrawal value may be used as cash in repaying loans.
- Deeds and all necessary papers must be handed to the secretary at time of application.
- Borrowers must pay for an examination of the title and for making and recording the necessary papers.
- The security committee examines the property offered as security in person.
- The attorney of the association examines the deeds, etc., and prepares the mortgage for signature.
- The board of directors act finally upon all applications for loans.
- If a loan is not approved, a month's interest and premium are forfeited.
- All members who become in arrears are fined.
- The fine is usually 2 cents per share each month that the member is in arrears.
- The shares are nominally $200 each.
- The sum of $1 per month is paid on each share until with the earnings, it accumulates to $200.
- All shareholders, borrowers and non-borrowers participate equally in the profits.
- Shares can be withdrawn by giving 30 days' notice.
- All notices of withdrawal must be made in writing.

Representative J. Howell Crosby was a guest of Mass. Republican Press Association, Thursday, at Parker House, in Boston, and one of the speakers, the other special guests being Mayor Glines, of Somerville, and Mayor Dean, of Malden. In his brief address Mr. Crosby referred to the local paper as next in influence to that of the mother in shaping and building character; it was also something like a conscience to the man in public life in its demands for the right. Speaking on boarder lines he splendidly portrayed some of the privileges of citizenship and maintained that politics, so far as it related to good government, demanded the best there was in the best citizens. At the conclusion of his address, Mayor Glines and Pres. Winship of the R.P.A., spoke of him as the "coming" senator of the district of which Somerville is pretty near the whole. We shall be pleased to second, at any time, the nomination so gracefully made.

The clothing house of Hammond & Son of Woburn have this week celebrated an event alike unusual and interesting,—the completion of fifty years of uninterrupted business in a single line. The firm was originally J. W. Hammond & Co., consisting of J. W. and his father. Both of these are now dead, and the son, who came into the business about the time of his majority, when the firm name was changed to Hammond & Son, is now the head of the house. To our younger friends, it may seem strange that Mr. Hammond was a pioneer in the ready-made clothing business, but the fact remains that up to that time few clothing houses carried a stock of ready-made clothing, even in Boston, and it was a great novelty to the citizens of Woburn. The senior remembers with what pride he doffed the tailor-made jacket "built" for him by Mrs. Thompson on Spring street, to don a cut-away coat and vest purchased of Hammond with the first savings of his wages as an apprentice in the Woburn Journal office. Sometimes since then he has worn garments of more fashionable cut, but none with the supreme satisfaction he felt at crossing the dividing line, then much more sharply defined than now, between boyhood and young manhood.

Midnight Alarm.

Arlington fire alarm rung in Box 54 at about quarter of three Friday morning, and Hose 1 and 2, the Chemical and Hook & Ladder responded. The fire was in the waiting room of the Lexington & Boston St. Ry., where the MacDonald Bros. have an eating saloon and sell candy, tobacco, etc. The place was filled with dense smoke when Chief Gott arrived but the fire was located under a counter in the front of the room and was soon extinguished. How the blaze originated is not known, and the fire marshal was notified on Friday to make an investigation before the chief formulates his report. The stock was badly damaged by the smoke, but the building escaped with slight harm and can be easily repaired. It is owned by the street railway corporation, which has its terminal at the Heights.

The golden jubilee of Catholicism in Attleboro was observed Sunday by the dedication of St. Mary's church of that city. It is said to be one of the most beautiful churches in the southern part of New England, excluding the cathedrals in the city, and in point of architecture is somewhat similar to St. Agnes church, at Arlington. Bishop Matthew Harkins, a former pastor of the Arlington church, and Bishop Bevens, officiated at the service.

"If I had an enemy upon whom I wished to be revenged," said Mr. Frank A. Locke, "I would send him neither a poison package nor an infernal machine. I'd make him a Xmas present of a bad piano—the torture would be more lingering." Mr. Locke is at the service of his friends selecting good pianos for the holidays. Shall he count you among the number? It is possible, you know, to have the best at a saving in price of from $25 to $75. Tell a phone Jamaica 17-3 and we'll talk it over for tea.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9th.

The week past has given us three or four days that have been perfect for this time of year, cold, clear and brilliant with sunshine. Broadway and Fifth Avenue are crowded with promenaders and shoppers and the stores are at their best with alluring Christmas goods. But the people are more fascinating than the shops—the women stunning in this city of much purple and fine linen. Everybody wears furs, and such furs! Sables, mink, the blended fox skins, glossy and dense black fox sets are all much envied, while the bolero jackets and short coats in Persian lamb and broadtail are immensely popular and becoming to slim figures.

The vogue at the present time is to shop and promenade in the forenoon and drive in the afternoon. Both Friday and Saturday afternoon Fifth Ave. was several times "blocked" by the stream of carriages. It is hard to know where the natural and artificial points of beauty blend, but certainly no city presents such a show of beauty as New York. The luxury and expensiveness of the carriage equipment is realized in great robes made of the finest male skin of the eastern mink. Everybody wears furs,—at least the women and children,—and very beautiful and expensive specimens. The children are dressed like picture books and are the dearest things. A blonde lady about five, in a Russian blouse suit and garters, all in white velvet, with touches of turquoise velvet, illustrates the showy and picturesque attire worn.

The art galleries are numerous in New York and handsomely fitted up; in fact several of them are what were formerly private residences and the connecting rooms, with handsome hangings, give a most agreeable effect in displaying the pictures, many of which are the work of famous masters and a never ending delight to the "country cousin" who has a bit of taste for such things. Vantine's (the Japanese and oriental store) is a fascinating place to wander through and this year is exhibiting some very excellent carved ivories. The jewels, bronzes, ceramics and exquisite cut glass, venetian and bohemian glass wares at Tiffany's is a never ending display and the store is packed with purchasers. The luxury of the age and the quantity of money some people have is quite amazing. At Tiffany's, the other day, a lady spent less time in selecting a five thousand dollar sapphire and diamond jewel than many women devote to selecting an article in the five cent store. All the stores are in holiday attire, but the only one I remember is Wannamaker's, where the large, open square in the centre of the building, is occupied by a gigantic Santa Claus surrounded by a group of children. The balconies looking down on the square are all hung with red draperies in curtain effect, with green borders, while all over the store are great wreaths of holly combined with red "W's."

It was rather surprising to leave quite an accumulation of snow at home and find not a vestige of it on arriving in New York; but snow storms do not score here, for it is taken away about as quickly as it falls and the constant travel travels it out before it gets a chance to make a good foundation. Yet it seems but a Continued on page six.

For the District of New England, We Respectfully Call Attention to the following Facts:

First, our Holiday Stocks are much too large for specific mention in any available newspaper space. Second, our assortment of Books, Toys, Dolls and Games, of Fancy China and Cut Glass, and of everything pertaining distinctively to Christmas, is much the largest in New England. Third, our prices, as usual, are the lowest.

Do not let these cold facts be jostled from your memory by the noisy advertising explosions of any other concern. Let Christmas shoppers hold fast to these main facts and they will not be deceived.

The Crowds of Past Years Impel Us to Make

TWO REQUESTS.

Both of which are for your own advantage: Make your purchases as early as possible, and, so far as you can, relieve our overcrowded delivery by taking small packages with you.

Our store will be open evenings, commencing December 14th, and continuing until Christmas. If you have no shopping to do, come into our vicinity and see the

The W. C. T. U. and the National Anti-Saloon League have made an attack on the "Capitol Buffer" and a number of valiant statements are said to be on the verge of nervous prostration.

It is reported that Andrew Carnegie will give ten million to endow a great national university at Washington. The report says a formal offer of this bequest has been made to President Roosevelt.

A company of religious revivalists that secured Park St. church, Boston, a place for meeting has been ejected by the proprietors because of certain eccentricities in method of conducting meetings.

Postmaster General Smith says $8,000,000 would have saved his department if the mail matter not entitled to the pound rate were made to pay eight cents per pound, and this would in no way interfere with the legitimate newspapers.

It is something of a commentary on the attitude of the friends of Admiral Schley who have claimed everything for him, that they now say that he cannot be court-martialed on any findings of the court. It had been better not to have tried to make a "hero" out of the officer on whom responsibility rested by the accidental absence of his superior officer.

An electric car on the Lynn and Boston line was smashed into kindling wood at the "Lynn Common" station of the Saugus Branch of B. & M. R. R. Monday evening. The car slipped its trolley while on the crossing and before connection could again be made the approaching train dashed into it. There was, however, time to clear the car and passengers as well as car men escaped unharmed.

In 1889 it was with great difficulty and by a bare majority that some humane people secured the enactment of a law by the New York State Assembly prohibiting the hunting of deer with hounds. In 1900 an attempt was made to repeal the law as applied to one county, most of which was maintained as a game preserve by an individual owner. The attempt resulted in flooding the assembly with protests and the measure never came to a vote. And yet some pessimists say that the world is growing worse and worse.

The recent slump in the stock market and the rapid decline in the Amalgamated Copper have been of particular interest to Boston people, and it is estimated that the losses to stockholders have been larger in Boston than anywhere else in the country. Amalgamated stock was widely distributed; that is, it had been bought and held all over the country; but New England was the section in which the largest blocks were owned, and where the number of stockholders was the largest. It is impossible for anyone to make even a fairly good guess at the sum lost here by the depreciation in Amalgamated, but there is no doubt that it runs into millions, and that people of moderate means as well as the rich have suffered through the fall in Amalgamated.

Honest Furs at Honest Prices

By Honest Furs we mean

Furs sold by their correct names and strictly as represented.

Furs made in our own work-rooms, from selected skins, by the same workmen and with the same care, whether the article is sold for $5 or $500.

Furs whose quality of material and workmanship make it impossible for us, if we would, to offer them below the prices of standard grades, under the pretence of "opening," "special," or "mark down" sales.

By Honest Prices we mean

Prices based upon the cost of materials and manufacture, and therefore representing fair market values.

Prices which give purchasers a full equivalent for their money.

Prices which, on investigation, will be found to be as low as other dealers name for goods of equal quality, and in many cases lower.

Prices which will remain the same until there is a decided change in the cost of production.

Muffs which we sell for $8 are worth $8, and not advertised as worth $12. Garments for which we charge $125 are worth $125, and not advertised as worth $200.

We offer a complete line of all that is fashionable in furs this season, and cordially invite comparison as to quality, styles, and prices.

—Mrs. Nelson Monroe, of Westminster avenue, remains about the same as last week.

—The boys and girls at the Heights enjoyed the coasting which was fine the first part of the week.

—Will Partridge is coaching the young ladies of the Sewing Bee in a short play which they intend presenting later in the season.

—Good families are always welcome and such a well equipped one as the Flint family, recently come to town, is thrice welcome.

—The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting of the Baptist church, last Sunday, was led by Miss Clara Cann. Topic, "The right use of ability."

—Mr. W. O. Partridge spent a portion of the week in New York, attending to business for the firm of which he is a valued employee.

—At the services of the Baptist church, last Sunday evening, there was special music. An anthem, "Great is the Lord," was rendered by the choir, and a solo, "Jesus Only," by Mrs. Frank Anderson.

—A new grocery store is about opening in the Post office building. It may not be clear to the untitled how all the merchants prosper, but they seem to be getting on with every enterprise.

—The warm days played havoc with the sleighing and did not improve the walking, but so far we have no fault to find with the weather at the Heights. The beautiful outlooks and healthgiving air more than compensates for slippery walks.

—Rev. George Allchin recently from Japan, will address the Park avenue church Sunday evening; meeting at 6.30, on "experience and observations in Japan." Mr. Allchin is an interesting speaker and an instructive and interesting time may be anticipated.

—Wm. L. McKensie, assistant station agent, we understand, is going to try his fortune in Cuba. Certainly that country offers chances to an industrious, energetic young man, and we shall expect to hear good news from Mr. McKensie in his new land. Perhaps before long he may turn up in Congress from our recently annexed possession.

—The Shining Lights held a Lemon Social on Wednesday evening, Dec. 11, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Wamaker on Forest street. Every one was requested to bring a lemon which later was used in making the lemonade served for the refreshment of the company. A pleasant program of music and recitations was given by some of the company present, making an enjoyable evening for the young ladies and gentlemen present.

—The usually large audiences at the services at Park avenue church Sunday. The pastor spoke on "The Bible as a history and literature through which God's nature and purpose are disclosed to the race." The Sunday school have prepared for a concert on the evening of Christmas Sunday Dec. 23. In the morning of that day the service will be commemorative of Christ's birth. Special music by the chorus. Also the school are anticipating an entertainment during Christmas week.

—Mr. George Tewsbury has been making a short business trip in New York this week.

—The regular Dramatic Club meeting was held with Miss Helen Fay, Thursday evening.

—A party of young people attended a dancing party given at the Newtowne club house Wednesday evening.

—Mrs. Margaret Dean returned last Saturday from her trip to New York. Her niece, Cora Gilder, returned with Mrs. Dean for the Christmas vacation.

—Mrs. Fred Goodwillie was unable to attend the sale and supper at Park Avenue church on Wednesday, owing to a sudden illness which threatened to be pneumonia.

—Dr. Merrill, who with his wife is spending the winter with the G. R. Dwelley's, had the misfortune to fall on the ice in front of the house, Wednesday afternoon, dislocating one of his arms.

—Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, who have been stopping at Maplehurst for the past few weeks, will soon return to their home at Bethlehem, N. H. Mr. Brooks is proprietor of the "Hillside," located at this popular summer resort.

—Monday afternoon and evening of next week, Dec. 16, Miss Ethel Tewsbury invites her friends to an "at home" when she will have a small display of fancy articles particularly appropriate for Christmas gifts, which she will be pleased to sell to those desiring to purchase.

—Through the courtesy of Mr. W. O. Partridge, quite a number of his friends on the hill were given the pleasure of attending the opening performance Monday night of Miss Bertha Galland's engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre, where she is playing the "Forest Lovers" with great success.

—Wednesday afternoon the Ladies' Aid connected with the Park Avenue church held a small sale in the church consisting mostly of aprons contributed by different members of the society, and home-made candies. These two tables were in charge of Mrs. H. T. Elder and Miss Marion Snow at the former, while Mrs. Harlan Bean, Marguerite Henderson and Ethel Tewsbury solicited for their tempting array. Each proved a profitable enterprise; also the lemonade stand, arranged artistically in one corner of the room with a good representation of a well with its Rebecca (Miss Amy Tukey) in a becoming costume as attendant. Between the hours of 6.30 and 8 o'clock a fine supper was served by a committee of efficient ladies who prepared a menu of turkey, ham and beans as the substantial, with the usual pies, cakes and fruit as dessert. This was all for twenty-five cents and was partaken of by nearly one hundred, which made it a large source of profit to the committee, composed of Miss Marguerite O'Leary, chairman, Miss Emily Sweet, Miss Ella Vickery, Miss Hunting, Mrs. T. J. Snow and Mrs. Geo. H. Averill, president of the society, who naturally had the general management of the whole affair. Later in the evening an excellent program of songs and recitations was presented by Mrs. George Bacon, made up of the following talent who appeared in quartet numbers, trios and solos, each receiving marks of approval. They were: Miss Drake, Miss Jaynes, Mrs. Lang, Messrs. Chas. O. Skeer, and Mr. Fred Bates, all out of town talent. The recitations were given by one of our own residents, Mrs. Coolidge, of Hillside avenue, who, with her husband, has made many friends since coming to the Heights. Rev. J. G. Taylor acted as master of ceremonies for the evening's entertainment, while Miss Edith Mann shared the duties of accompanist with Miss Jaynes, a member of the quartet. A sum of over fifty dollars will probably be realized as a result of the affair.

—The condition of Mr. Theodore D. Dupree seems to be somewhat improved over that of last week, which is gratifying to his family and friends.

—At the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting of the Park avenue church, next Sunday evening, Miss Alice M. Simpson will be the leader. The subject will be, "Imperialism of Christianity." Reference, Dan. 2: 44, 45.

—"Live and learn" is a maxim we all run up against some times, but it is at present "up to" the newly married young housekeeper, not living many miles from here, who, when asked by her fish dealer named George, what would be her order, replied in an assuring tone, "O bring me in two or three halibut."

—Some of our provision and grocery dealers were particularly generous in their contributions toward the supper given at Park Avenue church Wednesday evening. The fine turkeys were purchased at Hutchinson's market while the crisp, tender celery came from our populace and well equipped grocery store of C. H. Stone & Son.

—The Elerie Club held its regular whist party with Miss Alice M. Simpson, Monday evening. The members were pleased to have as a guest, Dr. Harrie W. Pierce of Marlboro, a former active member of the club and an intimate friend of all. Prizes were awarded to Miss Josephine Davidson and Mr. Alex. Baxter as holders of the two highest scores. Refreshments were a part of the evening's entertainment. Miss Edith Kendall will be the hostess for the next gathering, which will occur on the Monday after Christmas, Dec. 30.

—The members of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Baptist church held a business meeting and social at the home of Mrs. Clara King, of Westminster avenue, last Wednesday evening. The following officers were elected:—

Pres., Miss Cora Thompson; Vice Pres., Mr. Walter Jardine; Sec., Miss Rhoda Hart; Rec. Sec. and Treas., Miss Sadie Bacon. Chairman of Committees—Lookout, Mrs. E. K. Worthington; Prayer Meeting, Miss Rhoda Hart; Missionary and Flower, Miss Florence Sweet; Social, Mr. Walter Jardine; Music, Miss Clara Cann.

EAST LEXINGTON LOCALS.

Christmas will be here sooner than we realize.

The societies are making preparations for Christmas.

The work is beginning on Mr. Palmer's grain building.

Mr. M. A. Pero was out on Sunday enjoying his trotter on Pleasant street.

Rev. Mr. Cochrane will preach next Sunday morning on "Was Christ right?"

There seems to be a lull in the anxiety about small pox and fewer are presenting arms.

No school session on Tuesday, but some pupils from a distance came, not hearing the signal.

Mr. McLeod, we are told, has moved with his family into the Tower estate on Watertown road.

Joseph Dane was out bright and early Wednesday morning putting and on our sidewalks, which were very slippery.

Mr. Chas. Johnson conducts the Guild meeting next Sunday evening. His subject will be, "Faith in history."

Rev. Mr. Cochrane preached an interesting sermon on "The Thirsting Soul," basing his remarks on that beautiful 42d Psalm.

Miss Myra Fairbanks, though she is busy with her work at Tufts College, and is now living at Cambridge, makes frequent visits here.

Mr. Ayer, wife and three children, of Lynn, and Mrs. Fred Felt, of North Cambridge, have been guests at Mrs. Brackett's, on Fern street.

Let us prove the falsity of the statement that "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country," and trade with our townspeople for Christmas.

Sunday evening Rev. Mr. Cochrane preached on Longfellow's "Psalm of Life," showing conclusively that life is real, life is earnest, and not an empty dream.

Miss Anna Hamblen came home from Wellesley last Saturday and her friend, Miss Davenport, from Pennsylvania, accompanied her. They enjoyed the Old Belfry Club dance Saturday evening.

The Follen Guild held its annual business meeting Tuesday evening and Mrs. Charles P. Johnson was elected president; Miss Essala Cooke, vice-president; Anna M. Lawrence, secretary; Katherine Johnson, treasurer.

Carl Mandelburg has left the shop used by him for many years and Ellis has moved the building back and there will be a front built to it, as it is leased by Malcolm Torrey for a blacksmith shop. A. C. Washburn has the contract for the work.

We are particularly requested to state that the school program in the town report is not to be followed. Schools will close next week on Friday, Dec. 20th; they will commence Dec. 31st, and so they will not have New Year's for a holiday.

The party of the "Jolly Four" last week, was small owing to the weather, but very pleasant. We hear that there will be another party next week Tuesday evening, and a grand one on New Year's eve to dance the old year out and the new year in.

Who can describe the walking on Tuesday morning? It baffles word painting; but perhaps some of our village artists could portray it vividly. It our news seems rather like watered stock, it is attributable to the amount of water which we encountered.

The ladies of Follen Alliance will hold their annual Christmas fair at Emerson Hall, Wednesday afternoon and evening, Dec. 18th, and it is hoped all will give it their patronage, for Follen church needs your help and you can buy articles as useful or pretty gifts for Christmas. Follen Lend-a-Hand will have a table at the sale.

Wednesday evening the Follen Guild held its "Pound Party" at Emerson Hall. The ladies brought quite an array of pounds of varying quality, but alike in weight, and the gentlemen pawned out their dimes, declaring that silver was in the ascendancy that evening. The bundles so full of mystery were sold at auction and thus added a little for the benefit of Follen church, beside affording a good social evening.

We were much interested in an article on war times in a recent issue of one of the Sunday papers, and many of our people would also have been so, from the fact that quite an extended account was given of Horace O. Whittemore, who was the second principal of Lexington High school, and was not only popular here, but much beloved and had an honorable and distinguished war record. In Nov., 1863, he became a colonel of the 30th Mass. Regt., but did not long survive the war, dying of consumption.

Sunday afternoon, as Col. Tower was driving with his daughter and some guests near Munroe station, the sleigh was overturned and the occupants thrown out. Col. Tower was the most affected by the fall, but at time of writing he is better and his friends trust nothing serious will result from it. The party has reason to be thankful for their fortunate escape from more serious injury. The accident is attributed to a defect in one of the forward runners which gave way, spilling the occupants onto the frozen ground. Mr. Tower sustained in the fall an injury to his head, which rendered him unconscious at the time, but the result was not as alarming as was at first feared.

Mr. Easton preached Sunday evening from the text, "Follow me,"—Matt. 9: 9, his subject being "Scenes from the life of a great guide," a sermon appropriate to the hunting season. He commenced his sermon by saying that recently, when standing in a Boston depot, he saw quite a company of gunners with their bags and guns and as he looked around he realized, except for their equipments, they were really all hunters, needing a true expert guide as do the hunters in the wilds of Maine, for alone they would soon fall into pitfalls and lose their bearings. Christ was the true guide who would lead us along the pathway of life, if we will but follow him.

The Friday Club met last week with Mrs. A. Bradford Smith, on Locust avenue. After the preliminary exercises were finished, as Mrs. Charles Brown was unable to be present on account of her mother's illness in Boston, current events were in default, but Mrs. Cochrane filled the bill by telling us of Ralph Conner's works, "The Sky Pilot," "Black Rock" and "The Man from Glangarry." Mrs. Smith read an interesting paper on the imaginary trip of the club to Exeter Wells, Dartmouth and Bath, describing all the points of interest as they journey along. Photographs of the places were shown. Mrs. Dr. Sanford gave us a most excellent synopsis of "Alice of Old Vincennes." Mrs. Smith treated her guests to ice cream, cake and candy and the afternoon was spent very pleasantly. The next meeting will be on Friday, Dec. 20, with Mrs. Cochrane.

WASHINGTON LETTER

[Special Correspondence.]
The plans for the new building for the department of agriculture have been agreed upon in outline, and it is not thought there will be much difficulty in getting the desired appropriation of $2,000,000 from congress, for the needs are obvious and the department is popular with senators and representatives, partly because they can see the good it is doing and partly because it furnishes them more material in the shape of publications and seeds with which they can make complimentary remittances to their constituents than they can get from any other department.

The building is to be of white marble and is to stand on the site of the present inadequate building in the mall, but it will be so much larger than the old building that the two large wings which it is to have will be quite clear of the present site, and they can consequently be built without disturbing the operations of the department in the old building. When the wings have been finished, the department can move into them and get along while the central building is under construction. The department at present has overflowed into all sorts of old dwellings and temporary wooden structures which are not only shabby looking, but unsafe for the valuable collections of all kinds which are stored in them.

Will Sell Old Furniture.
Major Alexander McDowell, the clerk of the house of representatives, will present for the consideration of the buying public within a couple of months an offering of antique furniture completely dwarfing the stocks of ancient cabinet ware of the largest dealers.

The offering will comprise a large portion of the furniture which has done service in the house of representatives as far back as the mind of the oldest inhabitant runneth, pieces of patched up furniture fairly waterlogged with traditions and heavy with varnish.

Just prior to adjournment last spring congress appropriated the sum of $73,500 to be expended in refurbishing the hall, committee rooms, sergeant at arms' office, etc., of the house, and the cash has been expended. The $73,500 worth of new furniture has been placed in position and the remnants of other days are stacked away, dust covered and battered mostly, among the massive stone pillars and arches beneath the rotunda of the capitol. The law appropriating the money for the new furniture also authorized the clerk of the house to dispose of the old stuff. The date for its disposition has not been fixed, but the time will not be long before the auctioneer will have the last word and the great mass of solid walnut and varnish will pass under the hammer.

The Toga Too Large.
"I do not object to the style of your overcoat," said Representative Bingham of Pennsylvania to Senator Penrose, "but it does not fit me." There is absolutely no doubt as to the accuracy of the statement regarding the fit of the coat, and considerable laughter was caused at the White House the other day when Representative Bingham put on an overcoat which he supposed to be his own.

By mistake the Pennsylvania representative had taken the outer garment of Senator Penrose. Bingham presented a ludicrous spectacle, as Senator Penrose is at least 6 feet 2 inches and built in proportion, while the representative is a man somewhat below the average and as thin and dapper as they make them.

The senatorial coat contained enough material to make two garments for the representative, who had some difficulty in extricating himself from the immense folds of what might be called a modern senatorial toga.

Harmony on Irrigation.
Representative E. J. Burkett of Nebraska talked to the president the other morning about irrigation of western arid lands. He found the president a hearty advocate of national aid for this purpose. The western representatives in congress have held several conferences the past summer to try to harmonize on an acceptable measure for presentation to congress. Mr. Burkett has been the president of the gatherings, which have resulted in an understanding that the western congressmen are to press irrigation legislation from start to finish. So many suggestions have been made about irrigation and there have been so many bills before congress that there was never before any chance for action. The western congressmen are going to do better from now on and are in high hopes of being successful.

A Lincoln Memorial.
Senator Cullom of Illinois proposes to introduce a bill in the senate providing for an appropriate memorial to Abraham Lincoln, to be erected in this city.

"I wish to see a memorial that is appropriate and commensurate with the great life of Abraham Lincoln," he said to a Star reporter.

The location, cost and form which this memorial is to take are matters that he regards of secondary importance.

Senator Cullom's bill will provide that the memorial of Lincoln be located in accordance with the plans of the park commission, and he hopes a fitting design may be obtained by means of a competition, in which the greatest artists of the world can be induced to compete.

Some of the cabinet houses have been open for some weeks to callers on Wednesdays, but the regular public receptions will not begin before Jan. 1. Time has made sorrowful changes in the cabinet circle since this time last year, and little gaiety can be expected from that branch of official service.

short distance from Boston, when you can leave here at five o'clock in the evening and be at home in fair season to go to bed by midnight,—quite as early as when one has been in town to the theatre.
Saturday was a beautiful day and all the town was out, and all the public places crowded by the matinee girl, from the Waldorf-Astoria down to Huyler's. The afternoon was pleasantly spent after luncheon at the Empire Theatre, where John Drew is playing in "Second in Command" which is to come to Boston shortly. The handsome men in the east with their swaggy British army uniforms, and dainty Ida Conquest the leading lady, really makes quite a charming play without there being much to it after all when you come to analyze the performance; but this can be said of most dramatic play-rights now days.
We hear nothing of the small-pox craze here and is quite a relief to have a change of topic. But it is a striking and pitiful to see the contrasts which abound on these busy thronged streets, side by side. The beautiful and superbly dressed modern woman of social position, and her just as beautiful and lavishly attired, but frailer sister, in the worldly sense, although one may be quite as good and fit for translation to a world above as the other, are in close proximity, while wretched looking and poverty stricken beggars and fakirs are the most pitiable contrasts and touch elbows with the brilliant throng of which no doubt many of these same wretches had descended through misfortune's grinding and fateful straits of wretchedness. The ups and downs and contrasts of life in New York are wonderful and fearful to behold. Of all the fakir class and those who eke out a living in a small way, the newspaper women seem the jolliest and most interesting. Perhaps this last is because of their novelty, for to see a great, fat, good natured daughter of Erin or Italy filling daily papers is a sight not often witnessed outside of New York. These women are especially numerous about City Hall Park in the vicinity of the stairs leading to the suspension bridge cars. Saturday night many of the papers issued their Christmas number so the smaller fry of newspaperdom, which is in this vicinity was very energetic and vociferous. It is as much as your life's worth to get from New York to the sister borough of Brooklyn in the early evening when there is a surging mass of humanity, all of whom have but one intent and purpose which seems to be to trample on their fellow creatures, be they man or woman. The battle is to the most consciousness as well as strongest. It is the same trouble that Boston has with her own elevated system and a replica of the picture can be witnessed any night at any of the well known stations on the Boston Elevated. Will the transportation difficulty ever be solved. E. D. P.

ARLINGTON LOCAL NEWS.
—The schools will close next week Friday for the usual holiday vacation, which includes New Year's day.
—The Golf Club will hold its second dancing party in Associate Hall Dec. 27. The matrons will be Mrs. Fred Hicks, Mrs. Chas. A. Hardy and Mrs. Arthur Swan. So one of the Boston papers announces.
—The subject for the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at Pleasant St. Cong'l church, Sunday evening, will be: "The right use of ability." Reference, Matt. 5: 13-16. Miss Alice Whittier will be the leader.
—The Sunday school of the Pleasant St. Cong'l church will be given a Christmas festival, arrangements for the same to be decided at the annual meeting of the school, which comes next Monday evening.
—Miss Ethel G. Bartlett, daughter of Prof. Bartlett, of Pleasant street, held an exhibition of her painting, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, from 10 a. m., to 5 o'clock, p. m., at her studio, 214 Boylston street, Boston.
—Mr. Henry A. Leeds, of Bartlett avenue, is the flutist in Gray's orchestra which gave such satisfaction at the dance held in connection with the High School Athletic Association entertainment of last Friday. Mr. Julius Hackell is violinist.
—There was a decided change in the temperature on Monday. The weather moderated to such a degree that the fine sleighing which had been enjoyed for almost a week, fast disappeared, and the teamsters who were so unfortunate as to have been caught on runners had a hard time sledding it along the avenue, in some places on almost bare ground.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Peter A. Duran to John J. Henderson and Robert Henderson, Jr., dated the thirteenth day of April, A. D., 1886, and recorded with Middlesex South District Registry of Deeds, libro 174, folio 87, will be sold at public auction for breach of conditions of said mortgage, and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, on the premises as therein after described, on Tuesday, the twenty fourth day of December, 1901, at 10.15 o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular the premises therein after described.
A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situated in Arlington, in said county of Middlesex, bounded and described as follows, to wit:—
Beginning at a point on Teel street one hundred feet northeasterly from Massachusetts avenue (formerly Arlington avenue) on the southeasterly side of said Teel street; thence running southeasterly by the rear line of lots Nos. 24 and 26, one hundred seven and 50.100 feet to rear line of lot No. 30; thence turns northeasterly by the rear line of lots Nos. 30 and 16, fifty-seven feet to the line of lot No. 14; thence turns and runs northwesterly by the line of said lot 14 one hundred seven and 50.100 feet to said Teel St.; thence turns and runs southeasterly by the southeasterly line of said Teel street fifty-seven feet to the point of beginning. Being lot No. fifteen (15) on a plan of building lots in Arlington belonging to John J. Henderson and Robert Henderson, Jr., recorded in Middlesex Registry of Deeds, Plan Book 48, plan 4,—the said lot containing fifty-one hundred and twenty-seven feet of land, more or less. Subject to all unpaid taxes and assessments.

"For a long time," said the farmer's wife, "I suffered from gastric troubles and dyspepsia. After all my meals I experienced a disagreeable, heavy sort of feeling and often times in the morning my tongue would be coated; in fact, this would be the case for whole days at a time. I had recourse to the whole category of cathartics, aperients, laxatives, etc., but the relief I found was only temporary. Indeed, in most cases, after I had taken them for any length of time, the early effects seemed entirely vitiated. I had so often seen in the advertisements of the statement, one gives relief, that at last it so impressed itself upon me that I decided to give them a trial. A trial was entirely convincing and in a short time I was well. While I have now no regular use for them I always keep them on hand, to be used in case of emergency."

ance. Still there was a ready sale for the attractive and innumerable articles contributed by different members of the parish and a goodly sum was realized from the several tables.

The officers of the Guild, president, Mrs. James Yeames, vice-president, Mrs. Frank H. Hubbard, secretary, Mrs. F. H. Clarke, and treasurer, Mrs. G. O. Goldsmith had the general management of the sale, assisted by the following ladies with them at the several tables, — fancy table, — Mrs. A. M. Ring, Mrs. W. G. Goldsmith with the president, Mrs. Yeames, cake table, — Mrs. J. W. Goldsmith, Mrs. F. H. Clarke, Mrs. J. W. Buhlert, candy table, — Misses Mabel Balson, Alice Goldsmith, Edith Bickley.

A five o'clock tea table handsomely set occupied the platform, and was presided over by Mrs. Frank Hubbard, who sold the dainty cups to customers so desiring. The fancy table contained an endless variety of aprons, dollies, bags of every description, bed slippers, neck linings, and endless variety of dolls, baby saques, blankets, wrappers, komons and most everything to be desired, particularly useful and appropriate for a Christmas gift. The cake and home-made candy found ready sale in view of its excellence, and in fact the whole sale was worthy of its patronage, representing as it did much time and labor for the ladies of the Guild who must have been gratified with the results of the same. In the evening a short musical program was given, under the direction of Miss D. A. Swadkins, organist of the church. Miss Bertha Wright sang two solos, interspersed with piano selections by a young lady friend of Miss Swadkins. The sum of one hundred and twenty-five dollars was realized which was eminently satisfactory in view of the somewhat unfavorable conditions of the day.

Arlington Woman's Club Notes

The Cooking class will have its regular lesson on Tuesday, Dec. 17, in lower G. A. R. Hall at ten o'clock under the direction of Miss Ewart. The lesson will consist of yellow and white luncheon and will include many dainty dishes. Admission may be by course or guest ticket.

"Solving the Race Problem in the Black Belt of the South," by Mr. Booker T. Washington, in Town Hall, Dec. 19th, at 8 p.m. Guest tickets for this lecture, if desired by members, must be obtained before Dec. 17th from Miss Sprague, treasurer, Maple street. After that date, if any remain, those wishing may secure extra ones. Guest tickets are 25 cents each, and may be obtained upon presentation of membership tickets.

The Mother's class in connection with the club held its first meeting Wednesday morning in G. A. R. hall, at ten o'clock. The attendance was much smaller than the number required to make the course a success and it is hoped it may be increased as the course is an important one for the mother. If desired by the lecturer and had much of interest and helpfulness to detail to her hearers who were much pleased with her and recognize her ability to make the course a success.

Lexington Historical Society.

The Lexington Historical Society held its December meeting in the Hancock-Clarke house, Tuesday evening at 7.45 o'clock. In spite of the slippery walking and bad condition of the streets, caused by the heavy rain storm of the morning, there was a large gathering of members to listen to a paper by the Rev. C. F. Carter on "Yale Bicentennial," celebrated a few weeks ago, and other items of interest.

Rev. C. A. Staples, president of the society, presided over the business of the evening, calling on the secretary, Irving P. Fox, for the annual report; also of custodian, Dr. Fred Piper, who at this time turned over to the society a framed picture of Wm. Dawes, presented by Miss Julia Goddard, a descendant of this illustrious man; an old lantern used by the Universalist church in East Lexington, now known as Village Hall; six chairs used some seventy-five years ago. Dr. Piper has also made arrangements with the late Gov. Robinson's widow to have a portrait of her distinguished husband to hang on the walls of the Hancock-Clarke house.

Arrangements had been made with Mrs. Clarke so that the house shall be accessible to those desiring admittance during the months of December, January, February and March, a small sum of fifteen cents to be charged. Members, however, will be admitted free on showing their certificate of membership. The history of slavery, — introduction, nature, continuance and extinction in Lexington was suggested by Mr. Nichols as a subject for a future paper, the sense of the meeting being that Rev. C. A. Staples prepare and give the same. Another interesting subject in store for the society, probably at the February meeting, will be the Anti-Masonic war in Lexington, prepared by Mr. Bryant some time ago, which is now in the possession of the Masonic Lodge at Arlington.

After a few pleasant remarks on the history of Harvard College and the reading of one of Dr. Holmes' poems, Mr. Staples introduced Rev. Mr. Carter. The speaker was particularly happy in the arrangement of his subject, giving to his audience a clear and vivid picture of the scenes enacted at the notable occasion portrayed. From each of the principal speakers were culled the prominent thoughts and a short rehearsal given of each day's doings. Yale, like Harvard, was founded more as a divinity school, such minds as Jonathan Edwards having received their education at Yale, and in fact some of the brightest men had come from this college and gone out into all parts of the country better citizens, loyal to their fraternity and willing to help for the betterment of those less favored in the higher education. The first eighteen college presidents were Yale graduates. As the former students came from far and near to participate in this occasion, the speaker could not help experiencing something of pride at the grand showing, speaking as it did of the loyalty to college and fraternity which characterizes the life of all Yale students.

At the conclusion of the admirable paper a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Carter, through the suggestion of Mr. James P. Munroe. Dr. Tilton gave to the society at this time a valuable and curiously wrought spread. There was also a button taken from the cushion of a chair owned by the E. A. Mulliken ancestors, in the early history of the town, given to the society for preservation.

Mr. W. P. F. Meserve and his son Wm. S. had a successful season at Brighton, N. Y., and are now staying in New York city prior to going south. Mr. Meserve is negotiating for a hotel at Charleston, S. Carolina, in the vicinity of the exposition grounds. The family are well and made many kind enquiries for Lexington friends.

Golden Rule Lodge.

The entertainment consisted of piano solos rendered by Miss May Snelling, of Arlington Heights, and recitations given by Mrs. Blanchard. The remainder of the evening was passed in a social manner and disposing of the few remaining articles not sold during the afternoon. A sum of over one hundred dollars was the profit realized for the ladies interested in the affair.

Bowling Interests.

How largely the element of luck enters into games even where the skill and training are presumed to be the prerequisites to success, is illustrated in the results of bowling in the Amateur Bowling League for the week ending Dec. 7. Arlington is at the head of the list, in number of games won, but two other clubs outclass A. B. C. in totals. The following is the record of the week: —

| | Games Won. | Lost. | Total. | Average. |
|-----------------|------------|-------|--------|----------|
| Arlington Boat. | 7 | 2 | 7,821 | 889.49 |
| Newton. | 6 | 3 | 8,332 | 925.79 |
| Commercial. | 6 | 3 | 7,580 | 843.29 |
| B. A. A. | 5 | 4 | 8,007 | 880.69 |
| Charlestown. | 5 | 4 | 7,796 | 866.29 |
| Dudley. | 4 | 5 | 7,625 | 847.29 |
| 999th A. A. | 3 | 6 | 7,731 | 859.00 |
| Calumet. | 3 | 6 | 7,714 | 857.19 |
| Old Dorchester. | 3 | 6 | 6,690 | 855.49 |
| Newtowne. | 3 | 6 | 7,675 | 852.79 |

In the Mystic Valley League for the week ending Dec. 7, the bowling has gone on with slight changes in the situation as the following table shows: —

| | Games Won. | Lost. | Total. | Average. |
|-----------------|------------|-------|--------|----------|
| Charlestown. | 9 | 3 | 10,053 | 838 |
| 999th A. A. | 7 | 5 | 9,882 | 824 |
| Calumet. | 7 | 5 | 9,582 | 799 |
| Arlington Boat. | 6 | 6 | 9,585 | 793 |
| Towanda. | 6 | 6 | 9,337 | 778 |
| Medford. | 5 | 7 | 9,240 | 775 |
| Newtowne. | 4 | 8 | 9,000 | 775 |
| Old Belfry. | 4 | 8 | 8,392 | 744 |

Three of Arlington's men are in the list of high bowlers, well to the top, and Gilmore of O. B. C. has a record of 163.

Tuesday evening on the Arlington alleys, the A. B. C. defeated the Towanda of Woburn in the Mystic Valley series. Messrs. Rankin, H. I. Durkin and Brooks put up splendid totals and each ran ahead of the two hundred mark on singles, Rankin being the star man. Totals: —

| | Games Won. | Lost. | Total. | Average. |
|-----------------|------------|-------|--------|----------|
| Arlington Boat. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |
| Dodge. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |

| Rackin. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |
| Home. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |

The same night (Tuesday) O. B. C. went over to Charlestown where the gallant 999th captured everything and so keeps near the head of the M. V. league. Scores: —

| | Games Won. | Lost. | Total. | Average. |
|------------|------------|-------|--------|----------|
| 999th. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |
| W. H. Bee. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |
| R. B. S. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |
| Foster. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |
| Hagerty. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |

Thursday night on the B. A. A. alleys, Arlington Boat Club was toppled from its place at the head of the Gilt Edge league games by the B. A. A. They bowled finely but their competitors outdid them and made the contest a remarkable one. The following scores give all the details and place the honors: —

| | Games Won. | Lost. | Total. | Average. |
|------------|------------|-------|--------|----------|
| Bowler. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |
| Hill. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |
| Grover. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |
| Ainsworth. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |
| Fuller. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |
| Legue. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 100.00 |

The triumph success of Jan Kubelik, the violinist, in his New York and Boston appearance, have proved the leading events of the present musical season. Kubelik's absolute control of the technique of his instrument can only be realized after witnessing and hearing an exhibition of the skill of this wonderful violinist and his absolute control of an audience of vast proportions has repeatedly shown the rare qualities of his fascinating personality. Recognizing the wide spread interest in Kubelik among the music loving citizens of Boston, the management have been made by Messrs. Daniel Frohman, and Hugo Goritz for Kubelik, to give a recital at Symphony Hall on Saturday afternoon of the present week as well as to make a farewell appearance in the same hall on the afternoon of New Year's day. On both these occasions Kubelik will show his dazzling skill as a violinist. He will be assisted by Miss Jessie Shay, pianist, and Mr. Rudolph From, accompanist.

We are in the midst of the holiday season, the time of the year when good cheer should reign, and a little merriment is not a bad accompaniment. Both will be dispensed in homelike doses at Boston Music Hall next week. The great Leon has again been secured. He will return with a number of new illusions, even more startling and more elaborate than his first series. Staley and Birbeck will hold over for one more week, with their marvellous novelty act. Gus William will present his best efforts under the caption of "Our German Senator." Prof. Wormwood will introduce his educated monkeys and dogs, Morie and Maar will be seen for the first time in an original juggling specialty; the three Celestos have a great triple serial act; and other features will be the Knight Brothers, blackface singers and dancers, Fred S. Stuber, banjoist, Gordon H. Eldrid, vocalist and comedian, and the vitaraph.

"Fiddle-Dee-Dee," the merry musical comedy which has been the reigning attraction at the Park Theatre, Boston, for two weeks, enters upon its third and last week next Monday. Pretty girls in large numbers, funny comedians and clever singers and dancers have served to make this show a success. Something new is introduced at nearly every performance. For next week the management has added one of the strongest features that has ever been seen in Boston. This is the act presented by the four English Rosebuds, the charming young ladies who were the hit of the Kraly's greatest spectacle, "Constantinople." During the coming week new specialties will be introduced by Joseph Howard, who will continue to sing "Who's Your Friend," the song that has made the biggest musical hit of the season and new verses will be added to the song. Performances will be given every evening and on Saturday afternoon.

The third month of great success is the record of "Sky Farm" at the Boston Museum, a really phenomenal run for a play of this kind; a run which means a long series of great audiences, audiences too which must have been delighted and satisfied or they would not have carried the good news to their friends who formed the succeeding assemblies of patrons of this historic temple of the dramatic art, the Boston Museum. There is nothing complicated about the plot of the story, there is a touch of melodrama in one of the characters, probably introduced for "relief" to the comedy element, and the narrative is unfolded in a consistent manner. The love episodes are prominent and skilfully outlined, much of the language is very clever. In fact, most of Mr. Klander's characters show a ready wit in dialogue which is a strong feature in this interesting play. There is a pleasing absence of the Yankee dialect, and exaggerations in action and speech are generally avoided. It is a pretty little drama, acted with pleasing skill by a company of more than usual excellence.

O. B. C. Notes.

Monday evening, Dec. 24d, will be the second whist party of the month.

The 4th and closing series of the cow-boy pool will be played after Jan. 1st.

The report of the entertainment Wednesday evening will be found among the locals.

The Round Robin tournament had not opened at last accounts but will swing into line before another issue of the paper.

The entry list for club membership is again filling up. Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Livingstone and J. Chester Hutchinson are the newest of the late applicants.

Saturday afternoon following Christmas, the children of members of the club and their friends are to be given a fete in the assembly hall from 3 to 5 o'clock.

The 11th week of the Mystic Valley bowling games is next week when the O. B. C. team bowls with the Newtowne team on its own alleys. All up for cheers.

Miss Packard's unusually large dancing class which meets in the club hall from 4 to 6 on Thursdays, attracts about as many visitors to the Club house as any other feature. Miss Packard is graceful and pretty and the children are dears.

Probably twenty couples participated in the hop last Saturday evening. These parties are never large but are always enjoyable for participants. On this occasion, as on others, club members had out of town guests, and the only regret is that more of our young people of the dancing set do not join in making these hops more of a success. Mr. Ballard managed the party, and Mrs. Merrill furnished the music.

At Monday evening's whist tournament Mrs. Turner and Mr. Mead were the winning pair. Mrs. Saben and Mr. Redman were a dangerous second. The following were the good scores: — Mrs. Turner and Mr. Mead, plus 7; Mrs. Saben and Mr. Redman, plus 4; Mr. and Mrs. Luke, — 2; Mr. and Mrs. Will Reed, — 2; Miss Moody and Mr. Saben, — 1; Mr. and Mrs. Champney, — 1.

The Old Belfry whist team has its work out, playing the Review Club Friday and the Newtowne Tuesday next.

LEXINGTON LOCALS.

— Prest. Frank E. Clarke of the Old Belfry Club is to be complimented on the high standard of talent presented thus far this season at entertainments given under the auspices of the club. Wednesday evening the Oxford Musical Club gave a program in the assembly hall which was right up to the mark and was almost as varied and fully as entertaining as Keith's continual performances and went off with quite as much snap. The club includes five young and talented musicians who gave a performance without a hitch and was in every way bright and entertaining. Frank P. Lane was the pianist and baritone; Howard E. Tilton, flute and piccolo; Arthur E. Thrasher, tenor, mandolin and banjo soloist; Jerome Proctor, trombone and banjoist; Jacques Benavente, violin, saxophone, clarinet and mandolin soloist. Mr. Thrasher displayed a tenor voice of excellent compass and timbre and was a great favorite; his duet with Mr. Lane was fine, the voices blending beautifully. The "Sella Polka" was brilliantly executed by Mr. Tilton on the piccolo. Mr. Tilton handled the trombone, a difficult instrument to play, with perfect ease and played with artistic effect. The sonorous tones of the saxophone, which was a novelty to many, were sweet and musical, and Mr. Benavente showed remarkable skill in the execution of the difficult solo number rendered. When heard in combination, these musicians make a most effective orchestra and it was delightful to see them in such harmony with each other and the zest, and seeming enjoyment at least, which they got out of giving others pleasure. Each artist was repeatedly encored and generously responded but they were so prompt in pushing the numbers along that the program closed before ten and no one was wearied by too much of a good thing, this time at least. The most artistic and classical selections were lightened by the wit and humor, burlesque and clever satire which three descriptive pieces afforded, the first being a musical skit illustrative of a steamboat trip down the Mississippi, with various incidents and sounds of such a trip produced by unique instruments which made a musical combination that was quite a symphony. The second piece alluded to was entitled "Ten Minutes with the Minstrels," which was no end of fun and bright with the salient feature of a minstrel show. The third number or this class was "A day at the circus," where the Oxford showed their facility to descend from the sublime to the ridiculous and yet not overstep the bounds of good taste. A more appreciative audience could not have been got together and it was a good sized one as well and made up of people who appreciate merit and musical ability.

— Mrs. Walter W. Rowse gave a tea and at home at her inviting residence, Winthrop road, Wednesday, Dec. 11th, from 3 to 6 o'clock, which was attended by a number of the young hostess' numerous friends. It was such a pleasant affair many came early and remained late so as to lose none of the sociability which predominated. Mrs. Rowse was assisted in receiving by her sister, Mrs. James B. Hilton, of Cambridge, and both ladies made a strikingly handsome appearance, the former in black lace with steel and blue trimmings; the latter wore blue and white figured silk trimmed with white lace and blue velvet. Mrs. Holt was quite as prominent at the reception as her daughters although not of the receiving party. The dining room was another center of attraction, with its handsome decorations in yellow chrysanthemums and dainty table furnishings, not to mention the attractive group of young ladies who assisted at the serving of the tea. The pourers were Mrs. Edw. P. Merriam, dressed in grey etamine; Mrs. Geo. L. Gilmore, in lavender; Miss Stratton, in a bisque tinted transparent material over blue; Miss Mabel Stratton, black lace with touches of green; Mrs. John F. Ballard, in a mode shade cloth frock, trimmed with black applique and a suggestion of blue. Miss Amy E. Taylor served the frappe and made a lovely picture in crepe-de-chine over pale green.

— Rev. Chas. F. Carter's Sunday evening services are deservedly popular and there are few vacant seats in the chapel. The double male quartet is an attraction, but the intrinsic merit of Mr. Carter's talks and his interesting association of the theme of the evening with men prominent in the political and literary world is the fundamental reason for the success of these services. Last Sabbath the subject was "Cheerfulness as an element in manly character," as illustrated in the life of Robt. Louis Stevenson, who was cheerful in spite of the handicap of delicate health from which he suffered all his life and which developed into consumption in manhood and made the years prior to his death those of great feebleness and suffering. His courage and cheerfulness made his life a brilliant success and gave brightness and enjoyment not only to his household and associates, but the millions who know the talented author through his books.

— Supt. H. E. Tibbetts of the Baptist Sunday school has plans in hand for the Christmas times near at hand.

— Mrs. J. H. Cox is visiting her son at Haverhill and recovering from a recent severe and prostrating sickness.

— A number of our old as well as young friends have been rather under the weather. Their vaccinations "took."

— Col. Tower has recovered sufficiently from his accident to be out again after being confined to the house for three or four days.

— This (Friday) evening there is a meeting of the Corporation of the Baptist church in view of taking action in regard to the settling of a minister.

— The new well, No. 7, has been connected at the water works and ready for use and our supply receives quite a material increase through this well.

— Quite a party of Lexingtonians went to Lincoln on Wednesday to enjoy the entertainment in the free course of lectures, etc., secured by the Bemis fund.

— The report of the Lend-a-Hand sale last Saturday, with the committees in charge of the successful venture, is given in full on page two inside the paper.

— At the final hearing in the case brought by Mrs. Paul against Frank Conclusions, the defendant was discharged after the case was submitted to the judge.

— Miss Neuhaus continued her descriptive talks on the Wagnerian operas, at the artistic home of Mrs. Chas. B. Davis on Hancock street, Thursday forenoon.

— Mrs. Erving Winslow has opened a School of Dramatic Art, at Concord, in the old home of the School of Philosophy, one of the landmarks in that literary town.

— Mr. Lester T. Redman substituted for Mr. J. E. Ballard in the quartette choir of the First Parish church, on Sunday. Mr. Ballard sprained his ankle but has now fortunately recovered from the accident.

— The Women's Alliance of the First Congregational church, will meet for sewing in the parlor of the church, on Tuesday next Dec. 17th, at 2 o'clock. The usual sale will be omitted. The "Questions for an Alliance" will be considered.

— The competition four-handed match of shuffle is scheduled for Saturday. Call round and notice how the cracks play the game. A two-men tournament is in contemplation a week from Saturday. Entries close Friday, Dec. 20.

— On Friday, the 6th inst., Mrs. Geo. W. Taylor gave one of the dainty luncheon parties which the hostess of Larchmont has the happy faculty of making so agreeable for her friends. Mrs. Pfaff of Oakmont, Lexington, was the guest of honor.

— Lexington will put in an appearance again this year at the State Legislature. This time it prays that august body for the privilege of taking lands in Lexington for water supply purposes. The committee on water supply, A. E. Scott, chairman, has this matter in charge.

— M. H. Wilbur, who has bought out Bradley C. Whitcher's grain business, has recently acquired the well known Edw. G. Porter property on Waltham street which is being remodelled for his own occupancy. The rear projection of the house is being converted into a stable.

— Many friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Ashley sympathize with them in the critical illness with which Mrs. Ashley is afflicted and which has taken a serious turn of late. While there is life there is hope, and the doctor's encourage this sentiment in Mrs. Ashley's case in spite of her recent prostration.

— Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wheeler have invited their friends to join with them in observing the 25th anniversary of their marriage, this important event, the silver wedding, occurring on Christmas day, Dec. 25, 1901, the couple having been married on that date in the year 1876. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler reside on Valley road, No. Lexington. The invitations to the anniversary are unique and nicely gotten up by the "Wheeler Press."

— Tuesday afternoon the ladies of the Baptist church held one of their fortnightly sewing circles, at the church, which was followed by a sociable in the evening. It was voted at the meeting, in the afternoon, to hold a "rummage sale" in January to raise needed funds. The evening's entertainment planned did not materialize, but that did not prevent those present having a social and enjoyable evening. A collation of chocolate and cake was served.

— Mrs. Geo. O. Whiting gave a luncheon Friday afternoon of this week in honor of Mrs. Pfaff, whose husband recently purchased the elegant estate at Lexington known as Oakmont, and who has been receiving quite a number of social attentions of late and making friends by her charming personality. Mrs. Whiting's artistic and beautifully appointed dining room lends itself with much grace to such occasions and the luncheon lacked nothing to make it a season of delight to the guests. Twelve covers were laid.

— The Monday Club met at the home of Mrs. Greeley, who presented a very interesting paper on "The aims and motives of Spanish discovery," supplemented by readings from John Fluke relative to the Incas of Peru. The scene of Mrs. Muzey's paper, laid in Florida, gave a sketch of its discoverer, Ponce-de-Leon. Miss Kate Whitman told the thrilling story of "Balboa and the Pacific." The members listened to his lore of adventure, his charming personality, his romantic life and tragic death with undivided attention.

— Lexington friends and former town-people of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bartlett, of Charlestown, attended the 50th anniversary of their marriage which has just been celebrated with all the pomp and splendor which wealth can command coupled with good taste. The radiant hue of the golden wedding was beautifully blended in the table decorations, which marked the elaborate spread, and in the lavish display of gifts which included many presents in gold or gilded to look quite as beautiful as the genuine metal.

LEXINGTON NEWS LOCALS.

— The leading event of the holidays will be the Drum Corps dance—the 6th annual.

— Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Davis returned the first of the week from a brief but delightful trip to New York.

— Local matters of importance will be found on page two inside the paper as well as other interesting articles.

— Mrs. J. E. Chase, of Hudson, Mass., has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Osgood, at her Lexington home on the avenue, near the Wallis place, a few days this week.

— Rev. C. F. Carter's denomination a sermon (he rarely preaches one) last Sunday morning made quite a strong impression and has been referred to with words of warm commendation.

— Dr. Bertha C. Downing will read a paper on "Applied Christianity," largely illustrative of the college settlement work, before the Unitarian Guild at its meeting Sunday evening, in the vestry of the First Parish church. Service at 7 o'clock.

— The children of the Forest St. kindergarten will hold a Xmas sale on Wednesday, Dec. 18th, from 3.30 to 6 o'clock, p. m., the proceeds to go towards the District Nurse Fund, and everybody is cordially invited to attend the sale.

— Rev. C. F. Carter will occupy his pulpit at Hancock church, Sunday morning at 10.30. In the evening the double male quartette will furnish selections and Mr. Carter will speak on the subject of "High mindedness," drawing examples from the life of Prof. Henry Drummond.

— There was a full attendance at the membership of the Tourist Club at its meeting, Monday afternoon, with Mrs. Geo. H. Reed, which gave an unusual zest and interest to the meeting. Mrs. J. P. Prince read a paper on "King George's war" and Miss Hamlin contributed one on a kindred subject.

— The 6th annual dance of the Lexington Drum Corps will be held in Town Hall, Friday evening, Dec. 27th. A concert program will be rendered from 7.45 to 9 o'clock and the dance will be on from 9 to 1 o'clock. An electric will leave Lexington for Arlington Heights at the close of the dance. Mr. Butler will have charge of the decorations as usual. It is to be the party of the season.

— A small but attractive sale was held in the chapel of Hancock church, Thursday, which was largely the enterprise of Miss Hamlin. The proceeds are for the Orphanage, at Marsh, Turkey, where Miss Hamlin's sister and the latter's husband, the Rev. Mr. Lee, are located and engaged in missionary work for the natives. Some of the ladies of the church assisted Miss Hamlin and others gave the sale their patronage, so it was a success.

— The annual meeting of the Lexington Periodical Club was held at Sunnyslope, the residence of Mr. Charles C. Goodwin, Wednesday evening. This is one of our very oldest literary and social clubs and the annual meeting has always been a notably social and enjoyable affair.

The business transacted, and the old periodicals disposed of by the witty and genial auctioneer, Mr. Jas. E. Crone, refreshments and a social time generally was in order, making the evening one round of pleasant incidents for this reunion of old friends. Hon. A. E. Scott is secretary and the only officer of the club.

— M. H. Wilbur, who has bought out Bradley C. Whitcher's grain business, has recently acquired the well known Edw. G. Porter property on Waltham street which is being remodelled for his own occupancy. The rear projection of the house is being converted into a stable.

Twelve covers were laid.

— The Monday Club met at the home of Mrs. Greeley, who presented a very interesting paper on "The aims and motives of Spanish discovery," supplemented by readings from John Fluke relative to the Incas of Peru. The scene of Mrs. Muzey's paper, laid in Florida, gave a sketch of its discoverer, Ponce-de-Leon. Miss Kate Whitman told the thrilling story of "Balboa and the Pacific." The members listened to his lore of adventure, his charming personality, his romantic life and tragic death with undivided attention.

— Lexington friends and former town-people of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bartlett, of Charlestown, attended the 50th anniversary of their marriage which has just been celebrated with all the pomp and splendor which wealth can command coupled with good taste. The radiant hue of the golden wedding was beautifully blended in the table decorations, which marked the elaborate spread, and in the lavish display of gifts which included many presents in gold or gilded to look quite as beautiful as the genuine metal.

— The leading event of the holidays will be the Drum Corps dance—the 6th annual.

— Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Davis returned the first of the week from a brief but delightful trip to New York.

— Local matters of importance will be found on page two inside the paper as well as other interesting articles.
